

Being proactive goes a long way

Benefit Assist® helps employees receive the full value of their supplemental health plan coverage

Using our uniquely integrated data and the power of artificial intelligence, we proactively look for medical claims that may qualify for a supplemental health plan payment, designed to help employees receive their potential benefits. The result is a personalized experience that assists with the claim submission process and lets employees focus on their health while we handle the rest.

- 1 Benefit Assist technology identifies a potential claim eligible for benefit payment under the employee's supplemental health plan.
- 2 Many claims, such as those for Wellness, Hospital Indemnity and certain Accident Protection and Critical Illness conditions, may be paid automatically. In those cases, the eligible medical event is identified and a check is mailed to the employee without the need to file a claim.
- 3 In some instances, UnitedHealthcare may contact the employee regarding their potential eligible claim. Upon response, they'll be connected with a UnitedHealthcare claim specialist who will help them submit a supplemental health plan claim on their behalf.

Proactively searching a wide range of conditions

Benefit Assist for Supplemental Health searches for medical claims with qualifying conditions across each supplemental health plan, including Wellness, and identifies them as potentially eligible for a payout. The conditions listed below represent many* of the common conditions and medical events across each plan. Those with an asterisk () are eligible for automatic payment.

Frequently asked questions

What is Benefit Assist for Supplemental Health?

Benefit Assist helps ensure employees file eligible claims and receive the payouts they're entitled to, including Wellness benefits, under their supplemental health plans (Accident, Critical Illness, Hospital Indemnity).

We proactively screen eligible medical claims that may qualify for a claim payment under an employee's supplemental health plan. When a potential claim is identified, UnitedHealthcare will either auto-pay or assist with initiating the claim on behalf of the employee.

How does the Benefit Assist process work?

Our team screens through medical claims for key information to identify medical events that may qualify for a benefit under one of the supplemental health plans. Once potential claims are identified, they are processed further downstream in product-specific flows:

- Accident Protection – Certain conditions (concussion, fracture, laceration) will be auto-adjudicated via system automation. If the employee is eligible for a benefit, the check will be mailed out with verbiage explaining the benefit. All other claims will be automatically initiated on the employee's behalf. The employee will receive a phone call* from a supplemental health claim specialist to discuss details related to their medical event and next steps in the process. The employee may be contacted via email or letter if a phone number is not available.
- Critical Illness Protection – Certain conditions (benign brain tumor, coronary artery disease, heart attack, ruptured aneurysm, coma) will be auto-adjudicated via system automation. If the employee is eligible for a benefit, the check will be mailed out with verbiage explaining the benefit. All other claims will be automatically initiated on the employee's behalf. The employee will receive a phone call* from a supplemental health claim specialist to discuss details related to their medical event and next steps in the process.
- Hospital Indemnity Protection – The claim will automatically be initiated on the employee's behalf. Once initiated, the claim will process through system logic to determine if benefits are payable based on the available details or if additional details are needed. If not, the check will be mailed out with verbiage explaining the benefit.
- Wellness – These claims are fully auto-adjudicated via system automation. If the employee is eligible for a benefit, the check will be mailed out with verbiage explaining the benefit.

What communications will the employee receive from Benefit Assist?

Communications may be received via phone, email, letter or text, depending on the specific product. Any benefit payments issued to the employee will have either a letter providing a breakdown or a notation on the check itself explaining the reason for payment.

Will any documents or additional information be needed from the employee?

Depending on the specific claim scenario, the employee may be contacted to provide additional details, or a request may be made for additional supporting documentation from medical providers or other third parties. Whether claims are received online or telephonically, UnitedHealthcare takes the extra steps to support employees in the claims submission process by assuming the burden of claim substantiation through medical record retrieval.

How does Benefit Assist differ from UnitedHealthcare Benefit Ally®?

All of Benefit Ally's supplemental health claims are auto-adjudicated due to the nature of the claims included within the Benefit Ally program. For additional information on Benefit Ally, please contact your broker or UnitedHealthcare representative.

What accounts are eligible for Benefit Assist?

Benefit Assist is eligible for groups of 250+ eligible employees.

Is there a cost associated with Benefit Assist?

No, there is no additional cost for Benefit Assist. This is an integrated value-add program.

What is required from the group?

The employer must offer their employees a UnitedHealthcare medical plan alongside 1 or more of our supplemental health plans.

The employer must develop an eligibility file (EDI) feed to transmit eligibility and maintain accurate eligibility data in their platform.

For optimal utilization of the Benefit Assist program, the employer must ensure that all employee demographic information is present and accurate, including phone numbers, emails and Social Security numbers.

*Calls may appear on caller ID as WellTok, Unknown or an 888 number.

Do employees have to wait for Benefit Assist to initiate a claim?

No, employees can initiate a claim at any time. To submit their own supplemental health claim, they can visit the member portal at myuhcfp.com or call 1-866-556-8298.

Can employers offer Benefit Assist if they don't have medical with UnitedHealthcare?

Benefit Assist may be available for customers with external medical carriers. The external medical carrier must agree to provide medical claims data to UnitedHealthcare. There is a required file layout to initiate this integration.

Is an EDI required for Benefit Assist?

Yes, an EDI file is required. Benefit Assist cannot be turned on without an EDI file, and the screening process will begin once the EDI file is in production.

How are payments sent to the employee?

Benefit checks will be sent via physical mail per the standard process. Direct deposit information can be added on myuhcfp.com.

What phone number should employees call for any questions?

Employees can call the Benefit Assist line at 1-866-556-8298.
